Michael Morell, Former Deputy Director, and twice Acting Director, of the Central Intelligence Agency

Michael Morell joined the CIA in 1980. He spent 14 years covering East Asia, during which time he rose to be director of the Office of Asian Pacific and Latin American Analysis. He later managed the staff that produced the Presidential Daily Briefings, and was President George W. Bush's briefer during the 9/11 attacks. He held a senior overseas position from 2003 to 2006, after which he served as the CIA's first associate deputy director until 2008. In 2008, Mr. Morell was appointed Head of CIA's Directorate of Intelligence, with overall responsibility for intelligence analysis.

In May 2010, Mr. Morell was sworn in as deputy director of the CIA. During this period Mr. Morell was one of the CIA's lead players in the search for Osama bin Laden. He became acting director in 2011 when Leon Panetta was moved from the CIA to the Department of Defense, and in November 2012 Mr. Morell again became acting director when David Petraeus resigned suddenly. He retired from the CIA in September 2013, and joined the Harvard Kennedy School's Belfast Center for Science and International Affairs as a senior fellow. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, and he is Counselor to Beacon Global Strategies, a Washington, D.C. based national security consulting firm. He is also a commentator on national security issues for CBS News.
